

Sheffield's Contributions to the Beautiful Game

The first game under electric-light at Bramall Lane (1878)

Suggestion of 90 minute games

Corner kick introduced by Sheffield FC (1867)

Throw in by team which did not kick it out (1867)

No players other than the goalkeeper could catch the ball (1871)

First insurance scheme for footballers 'Players Accident Fund' (1867)

Change ends at half time (1867)

Suggestion of 11 v 11 players (1863)

First derby game (1860)
Sheffield FC
Vs
Hallam FC

Sheffield FC - The world's first & oldest football club (1857)

Hallam FC - The world's second oldest football club and oldest football ground

First radio broadcast of a football game (1927)

Proposal of the 10-yard 'arc' on the penalty box (1923)

The world's first inter-schools trophy - The Clegg Shield (1889)

World's oldest football trophy - The Youdan Cup (1867)

William Chesterman recommended a crossbar to the FA (1863)

The Sheffield Rules (1858) had a major influence on the modern game of football and led to the divergence of football and rugby.

Bramall Lane is the oldest major football ground with the first game played in 1862.

The first representational match was London v Sheffield in 1866.

The first international club match was Glasgow v Sheffield in 1874.

The Youdan Cup Rules allowed a referee to award a free kick for fouling which predated the FA rules.